THE TRAIL OF THE LONESOME PINE

Popular Play Presented by Strong Company at Colonial.

There were more tears than smiles last night in the large audience that witnessed the presentation of "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" by a capable company at the Colonial Theatre.

June, the little mountain girl, struck a note of sad, sweet sympathy in every heart with her low, soft, pleading voice as she communed with nature, communed with the lonesome pine and listened to the messages it brought to her in the mournful sighing of the wind through its branches. As she gathered the little wind flowers that had sprung up where the tears of the mountain women had fallen as they cried their hearts out over the death of relatives in the bitter mountain feuds. As she looked far away across the mountains that shut her in and longed to know the big, busy world out there. To see it, to feel it, to be a part of it. The part of June, interpreted by Miss Montell, was a wonderful character and portrayed with such naturalness and realism as to charm the audience.

The play, a dramatization of the novel of that name by John Fox Jr., is cast in the mountain regions of Kentucky and Virginia. In the heart of the feudist country, and gives a vivid portrayal of the feud to the death between the Tollivers and Farkers, with just enough of the blood and thunder to make perfect the realism of the play. The appearance of mining and railroad engineers in the development of the country, and the arrival of the law, which had come to stay, added variety to the plot.

The parts were all cleverly handled by capable players, and special mention is justified in the parts of June, by Miss Montell, young Dave Tolliver, by Thomas V. Morrison; John Hale, by Edwin Walter, and Bud Tolliver, by Mart J. Cody.

The lessees and manager of the Colonial are to be congratulated in the booking of plays of such merit as "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine" for the delectation of their patrons.

PERTINENT POINTS OF COLQUITT'S MESSAGE

Opened Last Message With Plea for Friends' Aid and Co-operation for His Successor.

(By Associated Press.)

Austin, Tex., Jan. 12.—A plea for friendly aid and co-operation with his successor, James E. Ferguson, opened Governor O. B. Colquitt's final message today to the Thirty-fourth Legislature.

The Governor reviewed his four years' service, reporting a list of reforms accomplished. He made barely a dozen recommendations. The more important of these were:

A bank of Texas.

Curtailing liquor shipments into dry territory.

Amendment of Robertson insurance law.

Compulsory education.

Abolition of the fee system.

Good roads.

More leeway in suspended sentence law.

Five Supreme Court justices instead of three.

Second primaries when no candidate has a majority.

Civil service.

For the bank of Texas capital he suggested the use of the funds of the State eleemosynary institutions provided the Legislature objected to taking the school funds, until by constitutional amendment capital can be provided in the regular manner.

During his administration, said the message, there has been a tendency to allow prohibition agitation and bring about a better feeling. The 9:30 closing law has proven a helpful reform. The Allison law should be amended. While it may not be possible to stop liquor shipments entirely into dry territory the evil effects can be eliminated by such an amendment.

Three recommendations were made on insurance conditions. First to amend the Robertson law to permit companies to return to the State. Second, to permit them to lend money in Texas if they did not wish to return for insurance business. Third, exempt from taxation the insurance company bonds deposited in the State treasury, whether State, county or municipal, instead of only United States bonds as at present. The purpose of this is to encourage investment in Texas securities.

The Governor recommended four-year terms for Governor, State executive and district and county officers.

Of the penitentiary system he said: "The system is now about on a self-supporting basis and well managed."

Paroling men on their honor has proven a great success, the message said. There are now 500 to 600 men whom Governor Colquitt believes are available under this system for county road building.

Governor Colquitt in four years pardoned conditionally 1,370 men and absolutely 228. "It is not a sin," said the message, "to err on the side of mercy." The juvenile training school was declared to be a miniature penitentiary four years ago. Now it is a modern training school and reformatory.

There are eighty-five warehouses under the emergency warehouse law. Governor Colquitt recommended that this law be amended so that only 50 per cent of the capital, instead of the full capital, need be paid up in organizing warehouse marketing associations.

Other points in the message of review include the following:

Texas has made the greatest progress in education in its history in the last four years. This year's tax rate is 37½ cents, compared with 45 cents in 1913. Livestock has increased.

"After four years of constant vigilance the State treasury has been restored to a cash paying basis." Here the Governor recommended changing the fiscal year to coincide with the calendar year.

The Attorney General's Department in the past two years collected $635,000 from all sources, including penalties. It tried eighty-four suits, winning seventy of them. Fifty-two suits are now pending. It rendered 1,500 official opinions.

Discussing railroad conditions, the message says doubtless some rates are too low. It adds: "I am convinced the heaviest losses to Texas railways, if there are any losses, are in interstate commerce." The National government, the message says, "is crushing the rights of States and railroads are getting an experience they did not anticipate from the policy of Federal control advocated by themselves."

The Department of Agriculture saves farmers thousands of dollars through protective and experimental work. It should have funds to enable it to keep agricultural information, especially that about markets, on file for ready use. The land office, through improved methods in selling lands, has in the past two years benefited the school fund by $3,830,000.

Separation of the departments of insurance and banking is recommended.

Four years ago there were 627 State banks and trust companies. Now there are 854. Their total loans and discounts increased about $36,000,000 or 92.5 per cent. Overdrafts meanwhile decreased 75.6 per cent.

State banks have helped farmers notably on cotton loans.

The State depositors' guarantee fund has increased during the Colquitt administration from $485,000 to $560,000.

The blue sky law has saved the people of Texas some $20,000,000 through its operations in a little more than a year.

The new Fire Insurance Commission has resulted in a drop in fire insurance rates.

Total fire losses to State institutions in four years past, $789,615. Eighteen thousand Confederate veterans are now drawing pensions averaging $7 per month, compared with $11.00 at $3.50 per month at the beginning of Colquitt's term. The tax system is declared to be cumbersome, needlessly expensive and in need of changes.

The sending of State troops to the Mexican border, says the message, convinced Mexicans that Texas would protect its people and since the last time the State troops were sent there, there have been no border disturbances.

WILL ELECT FIRE CHIEF.

Meetings of the two fire companies of the Bryan fire department have been held this week to instruct the delegates from each company as to the election of a new fire chief for the ensuing year. The election will be held tomorrow night.

DANGER IN DELAY.

Kidney Diseases Are Too Dangerous for Bryan People to Neglect.

The great danger of kidney troubles is that they so often get a firm hold before the sufferer recognizes them. Health will be gradually undermined. Backache, headache, nervousness, lameness, soreness, lumbago, urinary troubles, dropsy, gravel and Bright's disease often follow in merciless succession. Don't neglect your kidneys. Help the kidneys with Doan's Kidney Pills, which are strongly recommended right here in this locality.

Mrs. M. E. McGrady, 1013 West Main street, Brenham, Texas, says: "I don't hesitate to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills for the purpose for which their use is intended. I, and others of my family, have used Doan's Kidney Pills for kidney complaint and have had good results. I was annoyed by weak kidneys and pains in my back and loins. Doan's Kidney Pills removed the trouble and did me a world of good."

Price, 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. McGrady had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.
